

Dr. Crimmins is an associate professor at the University of Rochester Medical Center in the division of maternal fetal medicine. She is the obstetrical service line director for Strong Memorial Hospital. She is also the program director of the Diabetes in Pregnancy Program. Sarah graduated from Medical school at the New York College of Osteopathic Medicine and went onto complete a residency in Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University at Buffalo. She then went on to complete a fellowship in Maternal Fetal Medicine at the University of Maryland School of Medicine where she stayed on as faculty for 6 years after fellowship. Dr Crimmins a special interest in maternal morbidity and diabetes in pregnancy.